

My dear Mr. Wood

I decided to place the matter into a lawyer's hands, and moved against the Proprietors, Editors & writers of the "Freemason" just as the London Law Society whom you will recommend will advise - I then communicated directly with Mr. Bernard who has been made the abiding home of a libellous (guarantee), and if he is the offender (if indeed he should turn out to be one) I shall proceed against him too - I expect anxiously to receive a note from you informing me of the name of the best and most distinguished firm of London lawyers, in whose hands I place the matter, because in case they do not apologise, the matter will go forward, and as it is of importance I should like my lawyers to be of high standing. Believe me to remain

My dear Mr. Wood

Yours most faithfully
Frederick
