GARFIELD

J. R. MANDEL

GREAT MULTITUDE GREET R.:W.:THEODORE FRED KUPER ON HIS HOMECOMING

Our own TEDDY came home on the evening of Monday, April 21, 1930, at about 10 o'clock to the cheers and applause of a large and as enthusiastic a gathering as has ever been our privilege to behold at any function of importance. This great event took place in the auditorium of Pythian Temple, 135 West 70th Street, New York City.

Long before the arrival of our distinguished guest, seats on the main floor were at a premium.

The remarkable outpouring of the entire District to welcome their DISTRICT DEPUTY was especially pronounced, in that a good many lodges whose meeting nights happen to be the same as our own, closed their meetings early, and came up "en masse" to voice their approval of the man who is wrapped up heart and soul in "Camp Seven" and everything that it stands for.

The attendance included among others, the Masters of 1929, the Masters of 1930, Past Masters, District

Deputies and Past District Deputies of this and other districts, also a large delegation of other Right Worshipfuls. In all, a very colorful assemblage.

Theodore Fred Kuper, the District Deputy Grand Master of the Seventh Masonic District of Manhattan, arose to acknowledge the plaudits of the multitude and like a bolt from the blue—anti-climax—he insists, that he (in spite of opinions to the contrary) has accomplished nothing. In enlarging upon the subject (Camp Seven in the foreground), his remarks tended to show that he did the best he could under the circumstances, that it was merely a beginning and that the work itself was not at all finished, and so, nothing being accomplished until finished, therefore, he didn't accomplish anything. That's his story and he'll probably stick to it.

Thereafter, speaker followed speaker and all of them, with the approval and consent of the entire audience, sang the praises of Teddy and we say rightfully so.

The committee on the revision of the by-laws have been working steadily for quite some time and are now ready to render a report, which will have its first reading at this meeting. The importance of the revision of our by-laws, wherein numerous changes will doubtless take place, should not be underestimated. Will all the Brothers therefore, make it their business to attend this meeting.

DUES!

A Reprint from March 11, 1930 Notice

You've probably heard the expression "PROPERTY POOR." To apply it to our Lodge, we are what you might call "DUES RICH." If we could only collect the dues that are outstanding at the present time, our Lodge would be about $5,000 richer than it is at the present time and with very little stretch of imagination, you brethren can easily see what marvelous times would be in store for us, with such a large fund to draw upon.

YOUR DUES ARE DUE AND PROBABLY PAST DUE.

Remittances will be cheerfully accepted by R. W. Nathan Loewenstein, our Secretary.
