From " Scot's Magazine, 1755, pg. 132.

Some time ago a mason living at a considerable distance from me, whom I knew to have the character of a sensible and religious man, sent me a long paper, all of his own hand) writing and subscribed by him; in which he makes a confession of the oath, word, and other secrets of his craft. When he wrote that paper, and for a good time before, he was confined by bodily distress: and he represents his having been brought under a conviction of that whole affair, as a mystery of iniquity. His narrative is intermixed with reasonings from many texts of scripture, and ot otherwise, about the iniquity of the matter. He considers to oath as profane and abominable , what was sinful for him take, and sinful to keep; he treats of all the secrets which are therein sworn to, as a compound of superstitions ceremonies, lives, and idle nonsense; and he renounces the whole as a horrid lyes, and idle nonsense; and he renounces the whole as a horrical wickedness. At the same time, he urges me to publish he paper, for the conviction of persons engaged in that oath, and for warning others to beware of that snare; allowing me to case wer his name, his place of abode, and the lodge he belonged to. However I have only drawn out his narrative, which I here offer you, in his own words, for a place in your wagazide; leaving the world to judge of the matter as they please.

He informs me, that the account he gives is only of what he himself was taught, according to the usage of the lodge in

He informs me, that the account he gives is only of what he himself was taught, according to the usage of the lodge in which he entered; without regard to some circumstantial variations which may take place in other lodges, while they agree in the substance. And indeed an accolute uniformity among them cannot be supposed, if, accolute to their memories, and share in the common fate of oral traditions.

A mason's confession of the dain, word, and other secrets

These are to teatify, concerning that oath, word, and other secrets, held among the corporation of masons; wherein I was taken under the same, by sundry of them gathered together and man at D----, about the year 1727.

After one comes hat the door, he that keeps the door, called the warden looses the garter of his right-leg stocking, rools are uires him to deliver up any metal thing hehas upon him. The is made to kneel on the right knee, bare,; then the square is put three cimes round his body and applied to his breast, the open compasses pointing to his breast, and his bare elbow on the Bible with his hand lifted up; and he swears, "As I on the Bible with his hand lifted up, and this company, shall enswer before God at the great day and this company, shall enswer before God at the great day and this company, I shall heal and conceal , or not divulge or make known the secrets of the mason-word, ( Here one is taken bound , not to write them on paper, parchment, timber, stone, sand, snow, etc) under the pain of having my tongue taken out from beneath my chowks, and my heart out from beneath my left oxter, and my body buried within the sea-mark, where it ebbs and flows twice in the tewnty four hours,."

Immediately after that oath, the administrator of it says, "You sat down a cowan, I take you up a mason".-----When I was taken under that oath, I knew not what these secrets were which I was not to divulge, having had no information before me, . One person in the Lodge instrycted me a little about their secrets the same dat that I entered, and was called my author; and another person in the lodge, whom I then chused to be my instructo till that time twelve-month, was called my intender. There is a yearly imposing of that oath in admissions among the said craft through the land on St. John's day, as it is termed, being the 27th of December.

Concerning the word.

After the oath, a word in the scriptures was shown me, which said one, is the mason-word,. The word is in I Kings vii.2I. They say that Boaz is the mason-wrod, and Jachin a fellow-craft-word. The former is shown to an entered prentice after he has sworn the oath; and the latter is shown to one that has been a prentice at least for a year, when he is admitted a degree higher in their lodge, after he has sworn the oath again, or declared his approbation of it.

Concerning the other secrets.
I shall next show a cluster of different sorts of their secret First, then, three chalk-lines being drawn on the floor, about an equal distance, as at A.B. & C; the master of lodge stands at M. and the fellow-crafts, with the wardens and entered prentices, on the master-masons left hand, the last entered prentice at p.

Says the master, "Come forward." Says the prentice, "I wot not gin I may." Says the master. "Come forward; I warrant you." So coming forward the first line with one foot, while he sets the other square off that, he lays the right hand near the left shoulder, and ways, "Good day, Gentlemen." Coming over the second line with one foot, while he sets the other square off at b., he lays the right hand on the left side, and says, "God be here." Coming over the third line with one foot, while he sets he other square off at c., he lays the right hand on the right knee and says, God bless all the honourable brethren. "----.N.B. As the square was put thrice about his body when on the bars knee, so he comes over these lines setting his feet thrice in the form of a square.

Cuestion. What say you? AnswerHere stand I, (With his feet in the form of a square), younger and last entered prentice; eady to serve my master from the Monday morning to the Saturday pight, i all lawful employments.

Q. Who made you a mason?. A. God almighty's holy will made me a mason the square, under God , made me a mason .----

NxnxxTxxknexbestxxfxmxxremembrancexxxkhexwhokexkodgexpresent diaxnotxexceedxtwenty persons; x nineteen fellow crafts and thirteen entered prentices made me a mas mason. ---- N.B. To the best of my remembrabce, the whole lodge present did not exceed twenty persons; but so I was taught to answer, which I can give no reason for.

q. Where's your master?. A. He's not so far off kkak but he may be found----Then if the square be at hand, it is offered on the stone at which they are working; and if not, the feet are set in the form of a square, as before shewed, being the posture he stands in while he repeats his secrets. And so the square is acknowledged to be master, both by tongue and feet

Q. How set you the square? . A. I ca' two irons in the wall; if two will not three will; and that makes both square and level, --N.B. If they ca' in two irons above and one below, it makes a kind of both square and level; though ordinarily thet ca' in but one. And the reason why it is said to set the square , a and not hang it , is They're not to hang their master.

Q. What's a mason?. A. He's a mason thats a mason born, a mason swo

Mason's Confession. Scot's Mag; contd

a mason sworn, and a mason by trade.

Q. Where keep you the key of your lodge? A. Between my tongue and my teeth, and under a lap of my liver, where all the secrets of my heart lie; for if I tell anything in the b lodge, my tongue is to be taken out from beneath my chowks and my heart out from beneath my left oxter, and my body to be buried within the sea mark, where it ebbs and flows twoce in the twenty four hours .

Whats the key of your lodge? A. A well hung tongue. Are you a Mason? A. Yes. Q. How shall I know that?

A, By signs, tokens, and points of my entrie. Master. Show me one of these. Prentice. Show you me the first, and I'l shew you the second .---. So the master gives him the sign, with the right hand up the left side. P. More clear .... Then the master gives it uppermore, or moves his right hand a little farther up the left side. -- .- P. Heal and conceal. --- N.B. The token or grip is, by laying the ball of the thumbof the right hand upon the first or uppermost wintx knuckle of the second finger from the thumb of the other's right hand.

How many points are there in the word? A. Five. Q. What are these five? A. The word is one, the sign is two, the grip is three, the penalty is four, and Heal and conceal is five.

is five.
Where was you entered? A. Is a just and perfect loage.
What makes a just and perfect loage? A. Rive fellow crafts and seven entered prentices.--- N.B. They do not restrict themselves to thes tumber, but will do the thing 03 0.0

with fewer.
Where should the mason wo o be given: A. On the top of a mountain, from the crow of a cock, the bark of a dog, or the turtle of a dove

How many points are there in the square ?. A. Five. What are these five . A. The square, our master under God is one; the level's own, the plumb-rule's three, the hand-rule's four , and the gage is five.

The day that a prentice comes under the oath, he gets his choice of a tark to be put upon his tools, by which to discern them. So I did choose this. (The figure is is the M.S.) which cost me one mark Scots. Hereby one is taught to say to such as ask the question, Where got you this mark,? A. I laid down of and took up another.

If one should come to a mason working at a stone, and say, "That stone lies bess," the prentice is taught to answer "It is not so boss but it may be filled up again," or "It is not so bass as your head would be if your harns were out."

bes as your Mead would be if your harns were out."

Whin doth a mason wear his flowers? A. Between Martinmas amd

What's a masons livery ? A. Ayellow cap and blue breeches meaning the compasses.

How many jewels are there in your loage ?. A. Three.

What are those three? A. A square pavement a dinted ashler, and a broached dornal. What's the square payement for ?. A? For the master mason to draw his ground-draughts on.

What's the dinted ashler for ?.A. To adjust the square and to make the gages by.

What(s the brozched dornal for ?. A. For me the younger and last entered prentice, to learn to broach upon.

How high should a mason's siege be ?. A. Two steeples, a back and a cover, knee-high altogether .--- N.B. One is taught that the cowan's siege is built up of whin stones, that it may soon tumble down again ; and it stands half out half in the lodge, that his neck may be under the drop in rainy weather, to come in at his shoulders and come out at his shoes.

Mason's Confession, . Scots Mag. contd. Where lies the cappel-tow ? . A. Eighteen or nineteen feetand a half from the loage door; and at the end of it lies the cavel-mell, to dress the stones with ----N.B. There is no such thing among them as a cappel-tow. Where place ye your loage ?. A. On the sunnt side of a hill, that the sun may ascend on't when it rises.... N.B.A loage is a place where masons assemble and work. Hence that assembly or society of masons is called a lodge. How stands your lodge ?. A. East and west, as kirks and Why so ?. A. Because they were holy and so we ought to why so ?. A. Three. chapels did of old.

Q. 6.

What are these three. ?. A. The south east , south and 0. south west.

How many levels are there in your lodge ?. A. Tirce. Q.

What are these three? A. The sun and the sea, and the level. N.B. I can give no reason why the sur and the sea are called two of their levels, but so they will have it.

... To be particular in showing how the master mase. Q. stands at the south east corner of the lodge, and the fellow crafts next to him, and next to them the wardens, and next the entered prentices, and have the r sieges stand distant one from another, and the tools they work with is not worth while with is not worth while. Where lay you the key of your lodge? A. Two feet and a half from the lodge door, beneath a green divit. --- N.B. This is meant of their oath , unter which the secrets of their lodge are hid from the arm; that it, from the un-entered prentice , or any others of of their society , whom they call drops.

How long should a precice wear has shirt?. A. Till there be nine knots on it, three up the back, and three down each arm.

be nine knots on i?, three up the back, and three down each arm.

There are likewise various often signs, which they distinguish or discern themselvis by . As, if one were in a company and to send for another mason, he does it by sending a piece of paper, with a square paint folded in a company, at thee corner, and suppose he square it and in his hand, when it is opened out, the mark where the square point was folded in, is the thing that's noticed or, if he ands his glove, then the square is put on the first knuckle of the second finger, with the thumb nail or some other thing.

To find another by drinking, one say's, "Drink ". The other answers "No". He saith the second time "Drink." The other answers After you is good manners. "Again he saith, ""Drink, I warrant you ". And then he takes it.

Coming to a house where masons my be, he is to knock three knocks on the door; a lesser, a more, and a more. One gives the sign with the right hand up the left side; or if riding, he is to strike the horse over the left shoulder. If in a land where their language is not known, he is to kneel with one knee, holding up his hand before the masons.

holding up his hand before the masons.

If one coming into a company, wants to know whether there be a mason in the same ; as he comes in , he makes himself to stumble and says, "the day's for seeing, and the night's for hearing; God be thanked we have all our formal mercies. There is no difference between a dun cow and a dun hummle cow".

A mason's horse is found out among others by the left foot

stirrup being laid up:

To know if one or more masons be in a company
Then if a mason be in that company, he says, "What says the fellow." . He answers, "I say nothing but what I may say again; there is no difference between a dun cow and a hummle cow."

A masons horse is found out among others by the left foot

stirrup being laid up. To know if one or more masons be in a company which one meets on the way, he says, "Who walks? "Then, if one be there, he says "A man walks." if more be there, the answer is, "Men walk."
Then says he, "Good men and masters met you be; God bless all your company." Or, he gives the sign, by the right hand above the breath, which is called the fellow-crafts due guard; and the Scot's Mag. contd.

Mason's Confession, .

grip, by clasping his fingers at the wrist, next at the elbow; ot placing himself hand to hand, foot to foot, knee to knee, heart to heart, ear to ear, says, "Great you, great you, God greateth you, and make you a good master-mason; I'm a young man, going to push my fortune; if you can furnish me , you will do well."

I shall now give an account of what they call the Monday's lesson. ---- When the prentice comes to his Master's kitchen} door, he is to knock three knocks; a lesser, a more, and a more, If none answers he is to lift the sneck, and go in , and wash the dishes and sweep the house . Q. How far is the prentice to carry off the ashes?. A. As far off until he see the smoke come carry off the ashes?. A. As far off until he see that out of the chimney hear . After that he goes to his master's out of the chimney hear . After that he goes to his master's out of the chimney hear . After that he goes to his master's out of the chimney hear . After that he goes to his master's chamber door, and knocks three knocks, a lesser, a more, and a more; and says "Master are you waking? If he answer, "Not so sound but I may be wakened," then he goes in. His master asks a more; and says "Master are you waking. If he allowed, so sound but I may be wakened," then he goes in. His master asks him, "What'n a morning is it?" He answers," Its a fair morning, the winds in the west, and the sun's in the east; past five, going to six.". His master says, "No told you that?" The prentice answers he "met with a hathern man." "At. Clays his master ), sorrow is ay soon up at morn."

Q. How dothe the prentice give his master his shirt:

A. He gives it with the left sleeve foremost, and the neck of it next him, with the breast of it various, in readiness to put on In like manner he gives him the rest of his cloths. After that he gives him water to wash himself; then he offers him a cloth to dry himself; he will not have that; he offers him his shirt tail; he will not have that; one, he bids him on his next best. After that he follows his master up street, down street, with his right foot at his master's lefts to point, within stroke of a nine inch gage, till he capes with a sixteen feet and a half of the loage door; there the prentice leaves him. Then he goes to sort up the loage; and put the things in order; after which he calls in them men to work.

And this is the amount of that invented matter; or all that I can remember that is material in it.

P.S. There was printed, in the year I747, (ix.404.) a protestation and declinature from the society of operative masons in the loage at Torvicten, to meet at Livingston Kirk, Dec. 27 I739; satisfied of that date, at Kirknewton, by James Chrystie; and with another subscribed adherence, at Dalkeith, July 27. I747, by John Wilher...

In that paper, they renounce the mason oath, both as to the matter and formes finding the samenful and unlawful and thee-

such as kneeling on their bare knee, and the naked arm upon the Bible; ---- That iti is and must to every intrant be sworn rashy rashly; without allowing a copy of the said oath, and time duly and deliberately to consider the lawfullness of it; the matter thereof, and things sworn to therein, never being under their serious consideration previous to the swearing of that oath; seeing the person swearing knows not what he is swearing to; ---- That they " do look upon it as an unlawful obligation to conceakl the areaaful wickedness, superstition, idolatry, blasphemy, and profanation of the name and ordinance of God, which is contained in and annexed to that oath, altogether unbecomeing the name and profession of Christians; by the which unlawful means of secrecy, many are rashly and inconsiderately precipitrated and slily drawn into that sinful confedracyand wickedness above said, ere ever they can be aware of it:" --That " it is appending the seal of a solemn oath, containing horri horrid areadful and and uncommon imprecations, to a blank, yea to worse, to ridiculous nonsense and superatition; nonsense, (and that with this aggravation, of prophaning the sacred, scriptures, by intermixing them therewith.) only fit for the amusement of children in a winter evening; most of these secrets being idle stuff or lyes, and other parts of it superstitious, only becoming Heathens and idolaters. "---- Moreover they aeclare that the secrecy is broken and disclosed, by " what is already published to the world in print; concerning which say thay) there have been many lies and equivocations, in denying the same, though they contain the substance of the mystery."---I am etc.

D.B.

(N.B.With his letter, above inserted, Mr D.B. sent us the paper he mentioned (132), which is dated Nov 15th 1751, and another, of the same handwriting and subscription, dated F.b. 1752, also a paper containing several queries which he tent to the mason, for explaining some things in his papers, and the the mason, for explaining some things in his papers, and mason's answers . Having compared the precedeing nar content of the conten these papers, we find that it is faithfully taken f so that whatever shall be thought of the mason's it does not become us either to justify or con en ticity of the harrative may be depended upon.)